

Acknowledgements

I would like to thank Prof. Glatzel for offering me the opportunity to study at the Institute of Forest Ecology. His supervision, understanding and guidance were crucial for the success of my work.

I sincerely thank the Austrian Development Cooperation (ADA), Commission for Development Studies at the Austrian Academy of Sciences (KEF), African Forestry Research Network (AFORNET) and Ethiopian Institute of Agricultural Research (EIAR) for the financial support of this study.

The scholarship and financial facilitation by the Austrian Exchange Service (ÖAD) staff in Vienna and the Austrian Embassy Development Cooperation (AEDC) staff in Addis Ababa is highly appreciated.

The technical backups from Mr. Agaje Tesfaye and Mr. Hailu Beyene on the questionnaire survey; Mr. Seyoum Bedeye on feeds and nutrition; Prof. Monika Sieghardt on plant and soil sampling and analysis; Mr. Gebeyehu Belay on profile description; and Prof. Franz Ottner on soil texture analysis are highly acknowledged.

The laboratory staff members at the Institute of Forest Ecology and Institute of Applied Geology (Gerlinde Mistlberger, Karin Wriessnig and Anita Gruber) deserve great appreciation for their guidance during the analysis of plant and soil samples. I will always remember their Cappuccino mit Zucker.

I am grateful to the farmers, development agents and Kebele administrators in the Galessa-Jeldu areas who were very helpful, cooperative and friendly during the field research work. Geltoma!

I thank the soil and water management research divisions' staff at Holetta Agricultural Research Center (HARC), the management of HARC and EIAR for facilitating my fieldwork at home.

I would like to thank the staff members of the institute of Forest Ecology (Prof. Herbert Hager, Prof. Klaus Katzensteiner, Prof. Georg Gratzner, Prof. Torsten Berger, Prof. Monika Sieghardt, Prof. Helmut Schume, Mr. Andras Darabant) for their kindness, positive thinking and encouragement. Melanie Gertheinrich (the secretary, language translator and editor at the institute) deserves great appreciation for editing various manuscripts, socialization and organization of get-together events. Martin Wresowar was helpful for all computer-related matters and software installations. Gabriele Leitner was helpful for facilitating project financial matters. Hans Anton Fichtinger was everything. Danke!

The following Ethiopians deserve recognition for their part in my PhD studies: Dr. Bayeh Mulatu, Dr. Angaw Tsige, Mr. Getachew Alemu, Mr. Yohannes Gojjam, Mr. Berhane Kidane,

Mr. Mehari Alebachew, Dr. Yonas Yemshaw, Dr. Demel Teketay, Dr. Zerfu Hailu, Mr. Negash Mamo, Dr. Tilahun Amede, Mr. Chernet Assefa, Mr. Getnet Desalegne, Dr. Asgelil Dibabe, Dr. Woldeyesus Sinebo, Dr. Alemu Gezahegne, Mr. Haile Atfaye, Mr. Solomon Delelegne, Mr. Yeshitila Amha, Mr. Solomon Merid and Mr. Alebachew Taye. Betam Ameseginalhu!

I thank Birgit Habermann from KEF for commenting on my project proposal and for the organization of various seminar presentation forums.

The moral support and friendship of the Ethiopian MSc and PhD students in Vienna in general and at the Institute of Forest Ecology in particular are highly appreciated. I am also grateful to Minji (Mongolia), and Dharma and Asanga (Sri Lanka) for their friendship and understanding during the PhD study.

I want to thank Mr. Mesfine Tsegaye, Mr. Kasahun Bekele, Mr. Abera Tafa, Mr. Megersa Gutema and Mr. Regassa Feyssa for their assistance in countless ways during the survey, plant and soil sampling and workshop organization periods.

Last but not least, I would like to thank my wife (Tsigewoine Gizaw) for her encouragement, strength and caring for our baby boys (Yohannes, Dagmawi and Michael). Tsigewoine, Yohannes, Dagmawi and Michael – Hulachunm Betam Ewedachiwalhu!
