

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This work is the outcome of a thorough revision of my PhD dissertation, which I defended at the Department of South Asian, Tibetan and Buddhist Studies of the University of Vienna in October 2012.

I should like to offer, in the first place, my heartfelt thanks to Prof. Gerhard Oberhammer, my Doktorvater, for introducing me to the study of the Pāñcarātra textual tradition, for the ongoing patience with which he helped me to orientate myself with scholarly accuracy in the text of the Pādmasaṃhitā, and for his continuous stimulating intellectual challenges. I am also especially grateful to Prof. André Padoux, on whose advice I initiated my doctoral studies with Prof. Oberhammer. I am very grateful to Prof. Karin Preisendanz for her kind assistance in the concluding stages of my PhD studies.

I am indebted to Dr. Marion Rastelli and to Prof. Marzenna Czerniac-Drożdżowicz for their most precious criticisms and suggestions, which have contributed to improving my manuscript. With this regard I am also indebted to the reviewers of the Verlag der Österreichischen Akademie der Wissenschaften. Furthermore, I would like to thank the scholars with whom I corresponded during this work, and who gave me useful information, namely Gérard Colas, Dominic Goodall, Sanjukta Gupta, Ute Hüskén and H. Daniel Smith. Last but not least, I am very grateful to Jenny Condie, for the sense and sensibility with which she read my manuscript, and for all her suggestions concerning substantial stylistic improvements. Finally, it goes without saying that any shortcomings in this work are to be attributed exclusively to me.

This book is dedicated to Dennis, for his constant encouragement, and to Vera and Erich, who have grown up together with this work.

Special thanks to Ettore who kept me company and expressed his approval by wagging his tail.
