

83 (p. 207)

Ferry across Yellow River at Ra-gya Gom-pa; twelve inflated sheepskins are use to one raft, and as many as twelve persons are take across; horse and yak have to swim. Elevation at river bank 9900 feet, looking downstream. William E. Simpson my interpreter stands behind my horse.

84 (p. 207)

Tibetan ferry across the Yellow River at Ra-gya Gom-pa. Eight nomad women are about to be ferried across on a raft of twelve sheepskins.